CramJam '17
Study For Classes While Having Fun

Are you ready for Finals Week 2017? The Student Success Center (SSC) and Library and Technology Center are hosting their annual CramJam 2017 event on Tuesday, December 5th from 5pm to 8pm.

Students can study for finals while having fun in between. The SSC will also provide free math and writing support. During CramJam, a countdown will be used to alternate from 40 minutes of studying with 20 minute fun breaks. Activities include a photo booth, corn hole, card games, piñata, and mobile games. Refreshments will be provided, including a cocoa bar, cookie decorating (and eating!), pizza, chips, and drinks. Students must R.S.V.P. to attend. Any Lake student may sign up at any bulletin board on campus, the SSC, or at ssc-lake@wright.edu. Don't miss out on this great opportunity to study and, most of all, have a great time before Winter Break! Hope to see you there!

study tips

TIP #1: GET SOME SLEEP
You may want to cram for 24 hours before the big day, but losing sleep will give you one fatigued brain!

TIP #2: CHEW GUM
Studies show that chewing the same gum flavor when you study for and take the exam will help you remember more!

TIP #3: USE INTERVALS
Set a timer for 30 minutes of study time and then 10 minutes for a break. Repeat this 3-4 times.

TIP #4: GO ON A TECHNOLOGY FAST
Make the decision to stay off social media for the week of finals.

TIP #5: READ IT. WRITE IT. SAY IT.
Go through your notes. Read them, re-write them, and then say them out loud.

What is the biggest waste of study time?

CRAMMING!

Studies have shown that cramming actually takes more time than actual studying!
